'HAVE HEART' AUTHORS STEVE AND SARAH BERGER TO HOST Q&A DISCUSSION ABOUT HEAVEN

Leipers Fork, Tenn.—Sept 16— Grace Chapel's Pastor Steve Berger and wife Sarah, authors of Have Heart: Bridging the Gulf between Heaven and Earth, will host a Q&A discussion open to the public at the Williamson County Library main branch, 1314 Columbia Avenue, Tuesday, September 28, at 6 p.m.

The Bergers will field attendees' questions about Heaven using truths from the Bible while relating events surrounding their 19-year-old son Josiah's entrance into Heaven in 2009. Participants can learn more about everything from physical appearance, activity and awareness in Heaven, to how to find healing and comfort amidst brokenheartedness.

"We must learn and talk about Heaven in the midst of suffering. This isn't the closing act right here on earth," says Steve Berger. "There's much more to come—infinately and eternally more. We need to get this right ... for ourselves, for our own comfort .. [and] for other people, because they need to hear about the hope of Heaven."

Though space is limited, all are encouraged to attend this event by pre-registering via alliec13@gmail.com or 615.480.5025. Copies of Have Heart will be available for purchase at the event for $12.00 each with proceeds benefitting Josiah's House orphanage in the Dominican Republic and the library's local authors fund. Books can also be purchased in advance via www.haveheart.net or at Grace Chapel, 3279 Southall Road, Franklin.

Since its release in June, Have Heart has already experienced tremendous success and is in its second printing. A Spanish version of the book is also set to release in December.
